selling skills applied in the commercial field. It utilizes programmed in-are involved, some of which SB has keyed to operational situations and written up as supplements. (These three days normally start off a ten-day course which SB has developed primarily for SB officers who are working closely with access agents.) The initial concensus of those who attended to operations courses in OTR. However, there are some worthwhile teaching points and a modification of the course might be a possibility. These points
